

Project Information:

The owners of this home wanted to change the small grassy backyard to a wheelchair accessible, paved area with a pool for therapeutic use. The rear yard's design is informal, to complement the style of the home. Tennessee stone is used for the pool's coping and deck paving, and for a seat in the pool. Colorful plantings around the pool and on the terraced hillside provide year-round interest and color. A stone waterfall gracefully steps down the hillside, becoming a sparkling focal point and breaking the strong horizontal lines of the existing terraces.

Year Constructed: 1997

